Image 1

Reason this image is Not OK

It uses AI to make a fake, hurtful post about a real person. The intent is to bully and damage someone's reputation, not to learn or create. It's an example of unethical AI use that targets individuals and spreads falsehoods.

OK? NOT OK?

Is this image created with positive or negative intentions?

Image 2

Reason this image is OK

The image is intentionally humorous and staged for entertainment. It doesn't aim to deceive or manipulate anyone. It is exaggeration (like inventing the "bananosecond") is clearly a joke, showing that not all made-up content is harmful, context and intent matter.

Reason this image is Not OK

It uses emotional language and possibly a misleading or edited photo to influence opinions. This type of post can spread false or exaggerated claims quickly online. It's an example of AI or media manipulation used to provoke or persuade, rather than to inform or educate.

Reason this image is Not OK

It shows a fake award created to deceive others. The incorrect spelling and unprofessional design are warning signs of a scam. This kind of digital fakery can be used to cheat, mislead, or manipulate trust, making it unethical and unsafe.

Image 5

Reason this image is Not OK

The image shows bullying behaviour, using humour at another person's expense. Even if it's staged or AI-generated, using such an image to tease or embarrass someone is harmful and unethical. It can encourage negative behaviour or make others feel unsafe.

Image 6

Reason this image is OK

It's an example of AI used for storytelling and creativity. The image is clearly imaginary and meant to entertain or illustrate an idea, not mislead or harm. It shows how AI can be used positively to bring wild, imaginative concepts to life.
